The color of Brazil

Ruberti brings to the moulding the unique tone of the Freijó wood, a Brazil native tree which is recognized by the beauty of its very peculiar and expressive color.

A dark brown, almost honey tone, it refers to the singularity of the Brazilian wood. A unique naturalness which can be taken to corporate and residential environments.

With the Freijó Collection, a piece of Brazil will always be present either in crossing spaces or in spaces that invite us to stay.

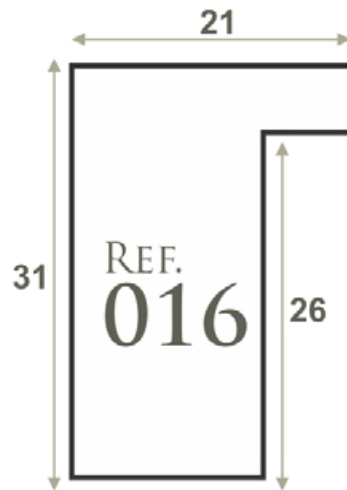

Its unmistakable color enables combinations of modern styles that can transform any artwork. The result is decorative frames that refers to the great trend of wood in decoration.
